Celebrating Excellence in Housing With Care

SPRING EACH YEAR

CENTRAL LONDON HOTEL

About the awards

Care Talk's Housing with Care Awards recognise and celebrate excellence in accommodation and services for integrated retirement communities, people with learning disabilities and people with mental health conditions, children's homes, retirement villages, assisted living, extra care housing and supported living and shared lives schemes.

According to the report the Social Care Institute for Excellence (SCIE), A place we can call home, "In the future, if people are to move into housing with care and support, a good choice of options must be available locally so we are not simply 'placed' in a one-size-fits-all approach to care."

The Meeting Housing Demand report by the House of Lords Bill Environment Committee stated that, "Housing for the elderly must include a mix of suitable 'mainstream' housing and specialist housing for later living," highlighting an urgent need for housing with care options to support our ageing population.

Moreover, the Levelling Up White Paper announced the establishment of a cross-department task force for housing older people. This task force aims to explore various strategies to expand housing options tailored to the needs of older individuals.

The awards will recognise accomplishments at all levels and from across the whole of the social care sector; including services for older people, people with learning disabilities and/or autism and children, young people and families.

There are a variety of categories available for nomination that represents all areas of housing with care – all with the common thread of celebrating excellence in this sector.

"The Housing with Care Awards offers a real opportunity to celebrate the excellent work that goes on in housing, care, and supported living services. Housing with care supports people to live well within their communities, and we see countless examples of innovation and exceptional care. I am delighted that these outstanding services will now receive the recognition they deserve."

Professor Martin Green OBE
Chief Executive, Care England
